Mayor refuses license, clinic owners to sue

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
and DENA BISNETTE

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry J. Bennett reported Friday that a privilege license for the New Woman Medical Center would not be renewed for the upcoming year.

As a result, officials of the clinic have temporarily closed the facility and are planning to take legal action against the city.

Bennett said in view of the recent bombings of abortion clinics in New Orleans, La. and Pensacola, Fla., he felt preventive action must be taken to protect the citizens of Bay St. Louis.

"It is my sworn duty to protect the public from bodily harm and their property from destruction; therefore I feel I must not reissue this privilege license," he said.

"I feel like we are sitting on a powder keg and I would feel guilty if someone in the clinic or close to the clinic was injured if it was bombed," Bennett said.

Bennett stated that the local group opposing the clinic, where abortions are performed, had emphasized that their demonstrations would be peaceful, but in view of the nationwide attack on abortion clinics he felt the action was necessary.

Bennett added that the issue had been discussed with members of the city council, who were all in favor of his action.

Bennett asked that the citizens of Bay St. Louis stand with him in this decision.

City attorney Joseph Gex, however, said Saturday that from a legal standpoint, Bennett's action is open to question.

"I told him that legally speaking, the city has to renew the privilege license," Gex said, explaining that the situation could result in a civil suit.

"By denying these people a privilege license to operate their clinic, the mayor may have gone against the U.S. Constitution, which allows abortion."

"On the other hand, he may have some legal grounds because he is doing this to protect the citizenry from the threat of bombings," Gex added.

Gex said he has not yet started researching the legality of refusing the license as a method of protection but said he anticipates having to do so if a lawsuit is filed.

A lawsuit will be filed Monday, according to Rebecca Stinson, administrator of the New Woman Medical Center's Jackson clinic.

"We do plan to take immediate legal action because we don't feel the mayor has the interest of the city at heart," she said Saturday in a telephone interview from Jackson.

"We feel that his personal feelings concerning abortion are behind this."

She said that she feels the Bay St. Louis clinic is in the same position as other nearby businesses as far as threats of violent action are concerned.

"If the mayor feels there is an additional threat because other clinics are being bombed, he should increase security," Stinson added.

She also stated that the clinic operators have been cooperating with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to make security arrangements for their facilities.

Stinson said, however, that Bennett's refusal to renew the license was not unexpected.

"We have been anticipating this because he sent a police officer to close us down shortly after we opened," she explained. "The officer thought we had no license."

Although Stinson said the clinic will reopen, Bennett has gotten support from local ministers who want it to remain closed.

"I applaud the mayor's efforts to protect the citizens of Bay St. Louis from violence brought in from outside our city," said Ernest Culley, Word of Faith minister.

First Baptist Church minister Nathan Barber said he was surprised at the action but was very supportive.

"I think when the clinic was first opened, they thought we would roll over and play dead, but as long as they are killing babies in our town, we will protest," Barber said.

Trespassing charges against Barber and Dr. Henry Maggio were dismissed Wednesday night in City Court. The two were arrested Oct. 26 for allegedly trespassing on clinic property while protesting.

Judge Joseph Benvenuti said Friday that he had dismissed the charges on a motion by the defense attorney when the prosecution failed to prove its case.

Judge continues arson case

BY DENA BISNETTE

Due to a holiday break, the caseload in Hancock County Justice Court required two judges Wednesday.

No cases had been heard in Justice Court since Dec. 19, according to a report from the Justice Court clerk's office.

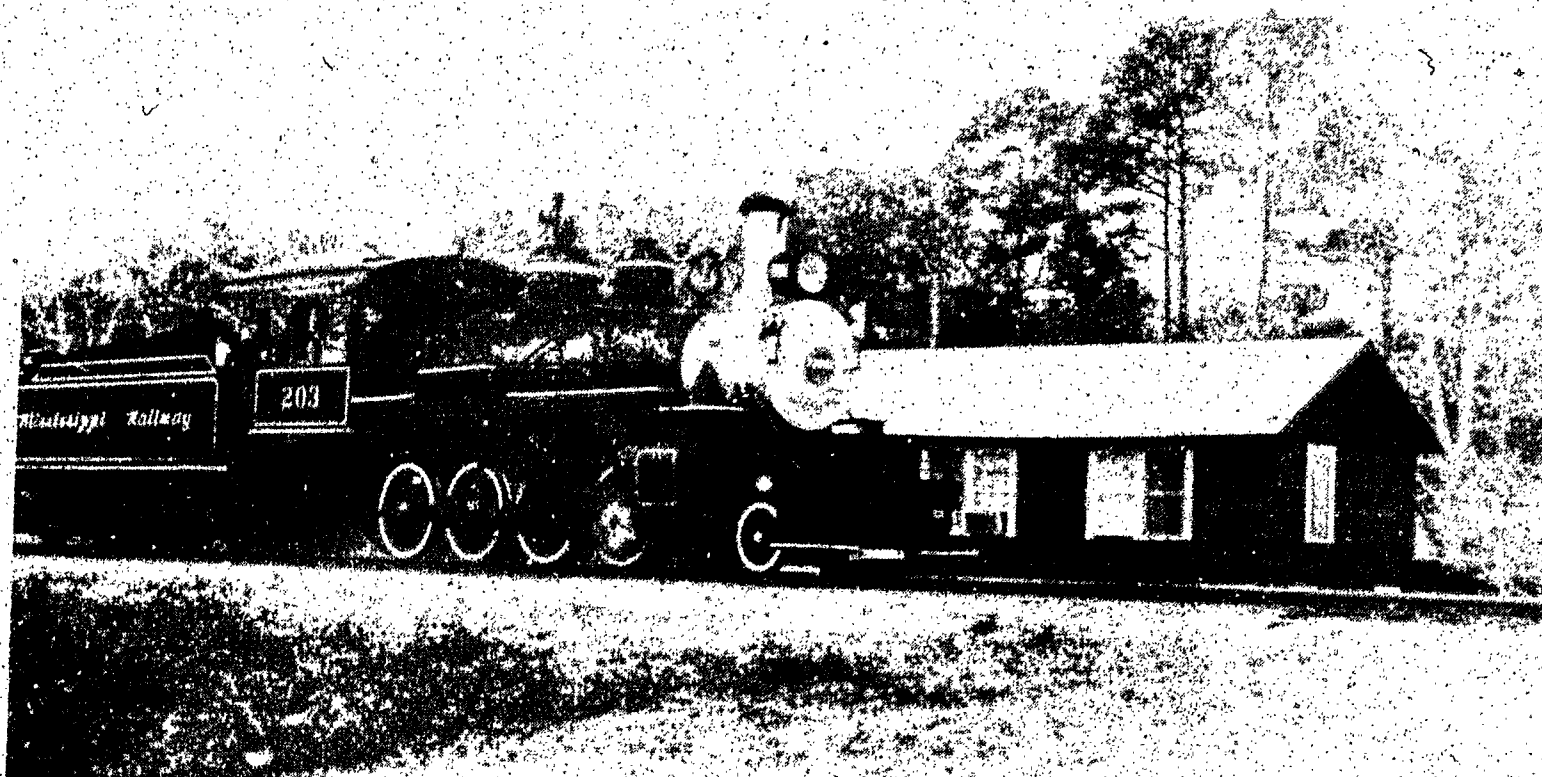

On Wednesday, Judges Horatio Frierson and Albert Necaise heard a total of 62 cases, most of which involved traffic and hunting violations.

Cases heard also included those of seven people charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Several cases were continued, including a preliminary hearing for James Lee Green and Charles Lee Green, who were charged with the murder of a woman.

Other cases included a hearing for a woman charged with the murder of a man, a hearing for a man charged with the murder of a woman, and a hearing for a man charged with the murder of a woman.

A SIGHT OF YESTERYEAR—Saturday morning a Steam Locomotive approaching the Nicholson Avenue Crossing with the old Connor's Grocery building in the background brought back memories to many Waveland residents. Nicholson Avenue was one of three stops for commuter service in Waveland when steam locomotives were used by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. The Mississippi Railway and Transportation Museum's 1925 Baldwin Steam Engine, headquartered at Port Bienville in Hancock County was enroute to Mobile, AL for minor repairs. The train was inspected by FRA officials last week prior to making the run. The regular train crew, J.V. Cannon, engineer; William Cannon, fireman; and J.R. Phillips, Sr. master mechanic, were assisted by a Seaboard crew for the trip to Mobile. The Museum train is scheduled for return to Port Bienville in late April and will operate in May for groups of school children, according to Mrs. J.V. Cannon, wife of the engineer. The train will begin regular runs on its nine mile round trip on weekends June through October at Port Bienville. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Supervisors make written offer for property

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Hancock County supervisors approved Thursday a letter from board attorney Joseph W. Gex offering Jules LeGarde $28,500 for a piece of property adjoining the site for the new county jail.

If purchased, the 75 by 140-foot lot located on Court Street east of the Sea Coast Echo building will nearly double the amount of frontage for the jail site.

Gex told supervisors that the letter also advised LeGarde that the county could pay only the amount offered for the property because law would not allow it to pay more than the appraised value of the land.

Beat 4 Supervisor Sam Pernicaro said it had been made plain that the county was interested only in the land and understood that the house would be moved.

Gex told the supervisors that they would not necessarily have to purchase the house to acquire the property, but they might have to include the expenses of moving the house in their offer.

Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner (Beat 3) said, "If we have to 'take' the property, we will probably would have to compensate him to move the house, which I don't want to do."

"I didn't want to buy the land. I sure don't want to pay him to move the house," Beat 1 Supervisor Bert Courge said.

Hancock residents approved a $2.5 million bond issue in a November general election to build the new jail and sheriff's office.

The supervisors voted Thursday to issue the bonds approved in the election.

Supervisors pass resolutions opposing judicial redistricting

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors passed a resolution Thursday opposing the proposed "alteration of judicial districts."

Joining Stone and Harrison supervisors, Hancock supervisors voted unanimously to oppose a Mississippi legislative committee's draft proposal to realign circuit and chancery districts in the state.

Under the proposal, Hancock County would be moved from the 8th Chancery Court District to the 10th district which includes Forest, Lamar, Marion, Pearl River and Perry counties.

The supervisors also passed a resolution proposed by Beat 1 Supervisor Bert Courge requesting the legislature to raise the homestead exemption for the elderly and legally disabled from $7,500 to $10,000.

With the recent tax increases in the county, some of the older citizens' taxes will be raised, and some of them will not be able to pay, Courge said.

The supervisors plan to present the resolution to legislatures this week while attending a legislative breakfast in Jackson.

Also while in Jackson the supervisors will meet with representatives of the Governor's Office of State and Federal Programs to discuss a public-private partnership for the development of Bayou Cadet harbor.

Jeff Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission told the supervisors he believed the governor's staff would have some "good news."

He also said that Bayou Cadet property owner Terry Ladner was planning to build 100 slips at the bayou, which would mean the county would not have to build 200 additional slips.

"A public-private partnership is still the best idea," Taylor said, "the county would still have a role, but not necessarily the construction on a marina."

Taylor added that one role the county could assume is the mitigation of wetlands.

He said the supervisors should keep pushing the project and try to get everyone with an interest together so the project would not be overbuilt or underbuilt.

"We all need to be together so we can assemble the kind of package necessary so the public will not be footing the bill for a white elephant," Taylor said.

Fourth dog poisoning leads to reward offer

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A fourth incidence of poisoning of Mrs. Ed Ling's dogs has led her to offer a $500 reward for information leading to the conviction of the person or persons responsible for the poisoning.

Ling reported the death of a golden retriever dog Wednesday to the Waveland Police Department because of a previous attempt to poison the dog and two attempts to poison the Ling's mixed breed dog.

According to Ling, an autopsy of the dog revealed there was no reason to believe the dog had died of natural causes.

She reported Friday that an analysis of the contents of the dog's stomach had revealed an amount of strychnine.

Dr. Herbert LeBourgeois of the Waveland Small Animal Hospital confirmed that the poison was the cause of death of the animal.

"Three weeks ago we had the same problem (the small dog was poisoned), but we found the dog in time," Ling said.

LeBourgeois said that a couple of years ago he had treated both dogs for poisoning.

He added that although he had not been able to verify the poisoning, both animals had shown diagnostic symptoms of being poisoned.

Walter T. Pennington is the new postmaster at Kiln.

Sectional Center Manager/Postmaster Norman L. Dilley of Gulfport said Pennington, 39, is a native of Gulfport and has served there as personnel assistant for the past five years.

Pennington replaces Jarvis

Postmaster selections are made on the basis of merit from a list of qualified candidates submitted to the section center manager by a review committee, Dilley explained.

The review committee, composed of a sectional center director from the same sectional center, a postmaster from the same sectional center, and a sectional center director from a different sectional center, review the applicants for the position and recommend to the sectional center manager those candidates who best meet the position requirements.

The sectional center manager then selects and recommends to the postmaster general the best qualified person for appointment to the vacancy.

Correction

In Thursday's issue of The Sea Coast Echo, a story about the Waveland Planning and Zoning Board incorrectly indicated that a zoning change had been approved for Imperial Condominiums Inc.

What the board actually approved was setting a public hearing to discuss the change. According to law, the public hearing must be held before approval of a zoning change can be granted.

The hearing will probably be scheduled for early February, but the date has not yet been set, according to Waveland Zoning Official Arcelyn Dastugue.

The Echo apologizes for the error.

Sheriffs urge support of boys, girls ranches

Sheriffs Ronald Peterson and Larkin Smith of Hancock and Harrison counties, respectively, are encouraging support of the Mississippi Sheriffs Boys' and Girls Ranches through honorary membership in the Mississippi Sheriffs Association.

January is set aside each year to remind members to renew, and to seek new members in the association, the two Coast sheriffs noted.

In 1976 the sheriffs' association founded the ranches, charitable childcare homes with locations in Lowndes County and George County which provide permanent homes for Mississippi children who are not delinquent but rather abandoned, neglected, or abused.

Funds for operation of the program come totally through voluntary contributions with no tax monies of any kind received, Peterson said.

The majority of the funds are made available through honorary membership in the Mississippi Sheriffs' Association. Every cent of the memberships goes to the ranching program. The Sheriffs' Association receives nothing, Smith pointed out.

The membership fees are tax deductible.

He noted that there are 42 children in care at the present time and that the ranches offer quality childcare in a home-family like environment that is second to none in the state.

Peterson said at least one of the boys at the Lowndes County facility is from Hancock County.

Association honorary members will be notified by mail in January and asked to renew for 1985. Those who wish to become members for the first time may forward the membership dues directly to the ranch.

Smith feels that, "This is a program of which the people of Mississippi can be very proud." "It belongs to Mississippi people," he said. "It is also one of the few charitable programs in existence where the donors can be assured that every cent is used to benefit the cause for which it was given."

Membership dues are $15 for an individual or $25 for a business, which includes a year's subscription to "The Mississippi Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch Round-up News." Auto tags are $5 each.

Checks should be made payable to "Mississippi Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranches, Inc." for tax deduction, and mailed to: Mississippi Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranches, Inc., P.O. Box 1428, Columbus, Ms 39703.

Carrier, clerk, rural carrier, applications at post offices

Norman L. Dilley, sectional center manager-postmaster in Gulfport announces that the Postal Service will open entrance examinations to establish a hiring registrar for the Gulf Coast area.

The examinations will be for postal clerks, carriers, and rural carriers with applications available at area post offices.

Dilley stated, "Applications will be taken Monday through Friday, Jan. 14-18 only."

Examinations will be scheduled and given at a later date to establish a register of eligibles from which future clerk, carrier, and rural carrier vacancies will be filled.

"Further details of salaries, qualifications and positions will be posted in the lobby of local post offices," said Tom Hill, Bay St. Louis postmaster.

Hill also said that applications will be postmarked and sent daily to the Gulfport Sectional Center in Gulfport.

Community Action Agency provides combination of education, day care

BY DENA BISNETTE

Through a new program offered by the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency, single mothers can now work toward the equivalent of a high school diploma while their children receive free day care services under the same roof.

According to its director, Lucy Hazeur of GCCAA, the program is designed to provide its participants with an education that will prepare them to seek jobs.

Hazeur said the program has been operating in Harrison County for some time and was expanded into Hancock County about eight weeks ago.

Gulfside Assembly in Waveland provides facilities for the program, with funding and materials being provided by GCCAA.

"At the agency, we believe that the cause of poverty is basically lack of education and job training. That's why we saw a need for these classes," Hazeur said.

She added that GCCAA created the original draft for the program and obtained funding through the Governor's Office of State and Federal Programs, becoming the first of the state's community action agencies to implement the combination of classes and day care service.

The program is provided free of charge to single female heads of households who are economically disadvantaged and can not afford school or a babysitter.

Free transportation from the agency's office on Third Street to Gulfside is also provided.

The agency also provides an instructor for the GED program and two day care specialists.

Each student works at her own pace to prepare for the GED examination, a test that measures acquired knowledge to see if a person has attained a degree of education equivalent to that of a high school graduate.

Students are also allowed to determine how many hours each day they attend class, since many hold part-time jobs.

Because participants work according to flexible schedules, new students can enter the program at any time after taking an entry test.

The test determines what an individual's course work will cover, since different students have different educational deficiencies.

While the students are taking classes upstairs in Gulfside's Jones Hall, the two day care specialists provide their children with educational activities and other day care services downstairs.

About 10 women are participating in the program now, Hazeur said, but several more have been scheduled for entry testing.

Once a student takes her GED, the program continues. "After they pass, we don't just drop them. We want to provide them with job skills and we'll assist them in getting jobs," Hazeur said.

Because GCCAA has an instructor who is qualified to teach secretarial skills, a course in that area will be offered later in the program. In addition, Hazeur's plans include offering word processing and computer training.

GCCAA can also refer students who want to learn other types of skills to other agency programs, local vocational-technical schools and junior colleges.

"The main thing we need right now is more students," Hazeur said, "and we want to make the community aware that the program will provide benefits for Hancock County as well as the students."

Information on participating in the program is available from Hazeur at 467-3198.

A very important workshop on practical tax planning will be held on Monday afternoon at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce office.

The workshop is co-sponsored by USM R&D Management Assistance Center, Mississippi Small Business Development Center, U.S. Small Business Administration and the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

A $15 fee for the workshop includes instruction and seminar materials.

As most business people know there have been many tax changes made for the year 1985 in regards to small businesses.

We realize it is a little late, but in a conversation with Clarice Gustin, executive director of the chamber late Friday, she said they can still take a few more persons if they call Monday morning.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jones of Bay St. Louis for being the proud parents of the first baby to arrive at Hancock General Hospital in 1985.

Elizabeth Claudene Jones was born at 8:11 p.m. on Wednesday.

A number of gifts went to the proud parents from local merchants.

We received a telephone call from a highway property owner telling us he had the area cleaned this week and before he could fence it, someone dumped a load of branches on it Thursday night.

There is a serious problem with some people living in Hancock County in that they do no respect the property of others.

US-90 is the main highway along the Coast and when trash and garbage is dumped alongside it make us look like a bunch of pigs.

We would like to see some of the people illegally dumping get caught and be assessed some stiff fines.

The time is now for us to become more aware of our community appearance and go after those who violate laws.

Animal poisoner strikes again in Waveland neighborhood

January 9, 1985
Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

Last Wednesday morning, a very precious life and a friend of our family was taken tragically and needlessly. A fun-loving and very valuable Golden Retriever by the name of Justin was poisoned. His owner is heartbroken.

This was not the first time that a so-called "neighbor" of ours has poisoned dogs, but this was the first time one of ours was lost as a result.

There are dogs in our neighborhood, admittedly, which "run wild" and sometimes knock over garbage cans, etc., etc., etc. They are not ours, however. We keep ours penned up, night and day, on our five acres.

Wednesday morning, little Justin escaped for a short while. Soon he was dead. A very painful death.

We have asked the Waveland mayor and police chief to investigate. When our dogs were poisoned some years ago, little was done. Perhaps this time, something will be done. We pray that it will—this time.

It might be an equally innocent child who is poisoned next time.

Heartsick,

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

TEACHERS BEING PAYED TOO LITTLE

A few hundred Mississippi teachers marched on the capitol a few days ago, calling on legislators to respond to teacher demands for a significant pay increase in this legislative session.

Teachers' organizations are demanding up to $3,500 per year increase for each of the next two years, a two-year increase in the range of 40 to 50 percent of the state's present average pay for teachers.

While demanding increased pay some teachers are adamantly opposed to that pay being based on performance or productivity. And, they are critical of legislators who suggest pay raises based on performance.

There was an interesting development in the teachers' march on the capitol. One teacher carried a sign which proclaimed: "TEACHERS ARE PAYED TOO LITTLE."

Two conclusions may be obvious. First, that particular teacher probably did not teach spelling, reading, or English.

And, that particular teacher probably was opposed to pay based on performance.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

Gov. Bill Allain has named the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA) to lead efforts in launching a new program to promote health-related activities among older Mississippians.

The program, which follows a national initiative, is designated "Health Promotion Strategy for Older Mississippians" and will involve MCOA, area agencies on aging, the State Department of Health, county health departments and others concerned about the well being of older individuals in developing and expanding health promotion programs for the elderly.

"This is a community oriented health promotion program designed to improve the health of our elderly citizens," said David Brown, MCOA director. "As the older population in Mississippi and, indeed, this country increases, it is important that more attention be given to enhancing the health status of this large segment of the population."

MCOA reported that between 1970 and 1980, the state's older population increased by 84,366 persons or 26.4 percent, and that there are approximately 410,000 Mississippians 60 and older. Also, older persons are living longer. Life expectancy has increased from 70.2 years in 1970 to 74.5 in 1983.

"Many of the ills that afflict these older persons are the so-called lifestyle diseases, such as diabetes and heart problems, which are related to preventable risk factors such as poor nutrition and lack of exercise," Brown said. "This program's aim is to increase disease prevention and health promotion for people of all ages."

Brown explained that the program will have some major benefits, which include saving the lives of elderly individuals who are at a higher risk for fatal and serious accidental injuries and saving money on medical costs, both for the individual and the state. The elderly make up about 10 percent of the population and account for 30 percent of health care costs, MCOA reported.

Another benefit, Brown said, will be improving the quality of life for many older individuals.

"The long term goal of any health promotion/disease prevention is improving the quality of life. While such programs can increase longevity, they also should afford individuals a chance to seek independent and rewarding lifestyles in their old age, unlimited by health problems that are within their capacity to control," Brown added.

In the coming months, MCOA plans to actively promote injury control, appropriate use of medication, nutrition and physical fitness among older Mississippians and will work with other agencies to educate the public on these subjects. Plans also call for a statewide senior olympics, observance of Older Americans Month in May, formation of a nutrition education program and increased support for Alzheimer's Disease groups around the state.

Further information on any subject relating to older individuals may be obtained by contacting the Council on Aging at 354-6590 in the Jackson area, or the toll-free Governor's Service Line, 1-800-222-7622.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE CONSTITUTION: A SIGN OF THE TIMES

By Lorena Consuelo Rosal

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lorena Consuelo Rosal is a staff writer and curriculum designer for the New Hampshire Constitution Bicentennial Commission, and the author of two books on the New Hampshire Constitution.

The New Hampshire Constitution, adopted in 1784, is representative of the constitutional development of the 1780s.

1784 was a year for regrouping and rebuilding in the newly-independent American states.

Several of the states adopted new constitutions. These were improved versions of the hastily drawn up documents that had served them through the revolutionary years.

As New Hampshire wrote its new constitution, other states were also giving serious consideration to altering their charters; in December of 1784, Virginia would approach a crisis over the issue of separation of church and state constitution in 1776, so New Hampshire proved in 1784 to be among the leaders of constitutional development.

There was a flurry of constitutional activity in America in 1776 which in itself was a revolutionary event in a world of monarchies.

Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and North Carolina all adopted constitutions in 1776.

But New Hampshire's was the first. In 1784, it was followed by the constitution that has lasted to this day. The New Hampshire experience, in many respects, is representative of the basic ideas and trends of the period.

As early as July 1774, New Hampshire patriots had formed a Provincial Congress which acted as a de facto government, organizing resistance against British tyranny.

The Provincial Congress, however, was technically out on a limb, for it had no legal authority to act in place of the royal regime.

New Hampshire leaders sought to legitimize their makeshift government in an effort to win over those citizens who were sitting on the political fence.

The Provincial Congress, therefore, asked the Continental Congress for "explicit advice respecting the taking up and exercising of the Powers of Civil Government..."

John Adams, who had been urging the use of the word "state" in order to distinguish free governments from royal colonies and provinces, took up the cause. In December 1775, Adams headed a committee formed to address the problem. Six days later, the committee issued a resolution recommending that New Hampshire

"Establish such a form of government as...will best produce the happiness of the people and most effectively secure peace and good order in the provinces—during the continuance of the present dispute between Great Britain and the Colonies."

The result was New Hampshire's 911-word, fifteen-sentence long temporary Constitution, which became law on January 5, 1776, six months before the Declaration of Independence. It marked the beginning of constitutional government in America, a government whose power was limited by the people.

In June 1777, however, a group of New Hampshire towns issued a resolution calling for a new constitution to be created and approved by the people, rather than by the legislature, as had previously been the case.

This procedure for constitution-making, soon to be followed in other states and in the nation, was revolutionary. For the first time in world history, a sovereign people would elect delegates to write a constitution that would have to be ratified by the people before it could become law.

Consequently, New Hampshire's present Constitution, the second oldest permanent constitution in America, became law on June 2, 1784.

Like so many of the constitutions which were written during the revolutionary years, the New Hampshire Constitution strongly protects individual freedoms. New Hampshire called the first part of its Constitution the Bill of Rights. It was the first constitution to use this term.

The New Hampshire Constitution also reflected the lingering distrust of executive power that existed throughout the former colonies. It instituted a split executive system, in which the power of the state's governor was checked by an elected Executive Council. Today, New Hampshire is the only state with such a split executive system.

More importantly, New Hampshire's Constitution stipulated that every seven years (today it is every 10) citizens would have the authority to call a constitutional convention to amend the document. In this way, the constitution would meet the changing needs of the people, while at the same time reflecting their most fundamental beliefs.

Finally, in the event that the Constitution failed to keep government fair and the people in power, New Hampshire's Bill of Rights guaranteed citizens the right to revolution. New Hampshire is the only state to guarantee such a right.

In the years that followed the adoption of this Constitution, national emphasis switched from limiting the power of the government to increasing it. The people no longer reacted against the royal regime, but against the weak government of the Articles of Confederation. New Hampshire, however, never relinquished its view that the protection of individual rights was imperative. New Hampshire became the ninth and deciding state to ratify the United States Constitution only when the addition of a bill of rights was guaranteed.

Since 1784, there have been seventeen constitutional conventions in New Hampshire, resulting in the addition of 140 amendments to the state's Constitution. Through the amendment process, and its ability to change with the times, the New Hampshire Constitution has remained, in Jefferson's words, a "living document" for "a living generation."

Small Business Administration

By Dorothy A. Overall
Public Information Officer
Biloxi Branch Office

Q: I am a small business owner. An insurance agent recently suggested I obtain business life insurance for myself on behalf of my company. Is this a worthwhile expense?

A: Business life insurance provides protection for the owner-manager of a small business.

When an owner-manager dies, this type of insurance can provide a financial cushion for his or her family and employees.

When the life savings of an owner-manager are invested in a small business, what happens when he or she dies? Does the business close? Does the family have to stand by and watch those savings go down the drain?

You can protect your business and family with business life insurance. Make sure that the insurance covers every aspect of your business.

Business life insurance can be written for numerous specific purposes. Chief among these are:

—A sole proprietorship insurance plan to provide for maintenance of a business upon the death of the sole proprietor.

—A partnership insurance plan to retire your partner's interest at death, and vice versa.

—A corporation insurance plan to retire your shareholder's interest at death or vice versa.

—Key employee protection. This insurance helps to prevent a setback that develops from the loss of a vital employee.

Once an owner-manager has set up an insurance program for his or her business, it should be checked periodically. Your agent or broker can provide technical advice about the arrangement of policies.

Chevron promotes Travirca

Chevron Corporation has appointed a new manager of labor relations for its worldwide operations—C.A. "Chett" Travirca Jr. He became manager Jan. 1, succeeding E.L. Johannessen, who retired.

Travirca, 58, is the son of Mrs. C.A. Travirca Sr. of Kiln.

He is a Mississippi native who began his 36-year Chevron career on the Gulf Coast as an engineer trainee with Chevron's former Calco organization. He specialized in various phases of industrial relations before transferring to the parent corporation in San Francisco in 1962 as a labor relations counselor.

In 1966 he was assigned to Chevron Shipping Company in San Francisco. In 1969 he became that subsidiary's employee relations manager, the post he held for the last 15 years.

He was educated at Mississippi State University, where he earned a BS degree in chemical engineering in 1948. He has also taken professional courses at Loyola University and the University of San Francisco. For two years he served in the U.S. Navy.

He has been active in a number of maritime industry associations. He and his wife Joan are residents of Marion County.

Decision is a sharp knife that cuts clean and straight; indecision a dull one that hacks and tears and leaves ragged edges behind it.

FAITH (PART I)

There are many kinds of faith in the world. A child has faith in his father and mother. He believes they can accomplish anything. There is faith one has in his fellow man. This faith is established by past acts of the person in whom we have faith.

There is blind faith. This is illustrated by the worshipers of Baal. The prophet Elijah challenged the worshipers of Baal to pray to their God.

"And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word." (1 Kings 18:20)

Then Elijah said, "Let them therefore give us two bullocks; and let them choose one bullock for themselves, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dress the other bullock, and lay it on wood and put no fire under: and call on the name of the Lord: and the God that answereth by fire, let him be God. And all the people answered and said, It is well spoken...and they took the bullock which was given them, and they dressed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, saying, O Baal, hear us."

"But there was no voice, nor any that answered...Elijah mocked them, and said, cry aloud: for he is a god; either he is talking, or he is pursuing, or he is on a journey or per adventure he sleepeth, and must be awakened. And they cried aloud, and cut themselves after their manner with knives and lances till the blood gushed out upon them." (1 Kings 18:23-28)

There was no answer. Elijah poured water in a trench around his altar, and poured water round about the altar; and he filled the trench with water." (1 Kings 18:35)

Elijah prayed to Jehovah. "Then the fire of the Lord fell, and consumed the burnt sacrifice, and the wood, and licked up the water that was in the trench." (1 Kings 18:38)

The people expressed their faith in the God of Elijah.

Every day we see the evidence of God. "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament show his handiwork." (Ps. 19:1)

The writer of Hebrews declared, "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." (Heb. 11:1)

"Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear." (Heb. 11:3)

"The reality of God is around us every day. Does God communicate with man? If so, how does he communicate? God spoke directly to Adam, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, etc. He spoke through the prophets to other men. Balaam's donkey spoke to him. (Num. 22:28)

The Hebrew writer wrote, "God, who at sundry times and in diverse manners spoke in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his son..." (Heb. 1:1-2)

David said, "The spirit of the Lord spake by me, and his word was in my tongue." (II Sam. 23:2)

Jesus said, concerning the comforter he would send, "Howbeit when he, the spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak and he will show you things to come." (John 16:13)

Paul taught, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (II Tim. 3:16-17)

A SIMPLE LESSON IN ECONOMICS FOR ANYONE WHO BELIEVES ADVERTISING RAISES PRICES.

1965 calculator - Over $2000.00

1984 calculator - Under $10.00

In the beginning there was the calculator. It was a new idea. It had never been advertised. And it cost a fortune.

Then the people who sold calculators started to advertise them. That was hardly a new idea. But it, too, cost a fortune.

Now, you might think all that expensive advertising would drive the price of a calculator to incalculable heights.

But no. What happened was exactly the opposite.

It doesn't make sense. How can something as costly as advertising end up saving you money?

It's really quite simple. Advertising spreads news. When it spread the news of the calculator, people started to buy.

As more calculators were sold, more were produced. As more were produced, the cost of producing them came down. And because advertising creates competition, their quality and sophistication went up.

So today, using an electronic calculator is almost cheaper than counting on your fingers. And advertising helped make it happen — just as it has for countless other products.

In fact, with a little effort you could probably figure out precisely how much money advertising has saved you over the years.

But don't try it without a calculator.

What is more heart-warming—and appetite appealing—on a chilly winter's day than the heady aroma of a huge pot of stew simmering on the stove, almost sinfully redolent of onions and garlic and herbs and spices and wine and "all those other good things," as one friend of mine expresses it?

Oh, I'm getting hungrier by the moment, just thinking about it, so in just a short time I'll be off to the kitchen, not a far journey in my snug little house, to start up a pot of stew—I didn't really want to make a pot roast out of that chuck blade roast sitting in the fridge, did I?

Every country, every culture has its version of stew, probably the oldest form of cooking. There are as many varieties as there are cooks and nations around the world—from the largest to the smallest countries.

The Irishman must have his potatoes in his stew, the Belgian his beer in the famed "Carbonnade," the French countryside dotes on its Beef Bourguignonne, heavily accounted with the robust red wine of the region.

The Italians add pasta, the Scotch must have barley, and the Mexicans—well, I've sampled, liberally and often, Mexico's Puchero, an almost unbelievable and unbelievably good rendition of various meats and vegetables and beans and so on—and, often, as an extra touch, guacamole is spooned over it all as a sauce!

And, one of the nicest things about stew is that there's no welter of pots and pans in the kitchen—just one big pot into which you toss whatever's on hand, after browning the meat or whatever, of course, and let it all simmer slowly together with only an occasional look at it all as it cooks.

You can, of course, cook it in the oven, but that's not as much fun as simmering and tasting. You can, of course, use a crock pot or some other method—but there's something so fulfilling, to me, at least, about a pot of stew a-simmer in the old black iron pot that renews the soul, and all the memories of long-gone days cook along with the stew!

My favorite stew, Irish though I be, is the everyday classic of the French countryside. So, here's:

Beef Bourguignonne

(Don't let the fancy name frighten you—it's just stew.)

3 lbs. beef chuck or round, cut into generous bite-size pieces

Sugar for sprinkling meat (optional)

2 Tbsp. butter, same of bacon drippings

1 dozen small, peeled white onions (or other onion, coarsely cut)

1 carrot, coarsely sliced or chopped

Pinches of thyme and marjoram

Dashes of Worcestershire sauce, hot pepper sauce, salt, pepper

2 Tbsp. flour

1 garlic clove, minced

bayleaf

2 cups burgundy wine

1 cup beef broth or bouillon (or bouillon cube dissolved in water)

1 cup or more sliced fresh mushrooms (or use canned)

Brown the sugar-sprinkled beef cubes in the combination of butter and drippings (or oil, if drippings are not on hand) and add the onions and carrots. Add all the seasonings, the flour first, stir together, then pour the wine and broth or bouillon over.

Cover, simmer at low heat for at least three hours, testing and tasting from time to time. Add the mushrooms, and continue to simmer until the meat is fork-tender.

All you need with this is a green salad and hot, crusty French bread for mopping up the delicious dark brown and ruby red sauce—or you may want to serve it over or along with broad noodles—or in a casserole dish, with the sauce on the side, accompanied by whole new potatoes sautéed in butter—and, it's even tastier the next day—if there's any left over!

Taylor proposes teacher raises, scholarships

A bill aimed at keeping teaching talent at home in Mississippi by giving a 20 percent pay raise to those in the system now and scholarships to encourage bright college students to enter teaching has been pre-filed in the Legislature by Sen. Gene Taylor of District 46, which includes portions of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties.

"A beginning teacher can earn $4,000 to $4,500 more by driving from Ocean Springs or Bay St. Louis to teach in Alabama or Louisiana," Taylor said.

"Consequently, we are losing some of our best educators. A substantial raise is essential to make teaching at home competitive with nearby areas."

Taylor's bill would provide scholarships for students enrolled in teacher education programs in Mississippi's institutions of higher learning who agree to teach in public schools in the state after graduation.

"This concept is borrowed from the military ROTC scholarship program, in which the government pays the cost of a college education if the individual agrees to serve in the military after graduation," Taylor said.

If a scholarship recipient does not finish an educational program or fails to teach for four years in this state, he or she would be required to repay the state the full amount plus interest computed at the prime rate plus two percent.

In this way, the interests of the taxpayers are protected and yet the penalty for not continuing with the program is not excessive for young people who decide not to become teachers.

While the 1982 Education Reform Act includes a scholarship program for science and mathematics teachers, Taylor's bill extends student grants to other priority areas.

In the event that sales taxes exceed projections, new taxes would not be needed to carry out the provisions of the bill, Taylor said.

However, if, as anticipated, there is not adequate money, the bill would finance the package with the following taxes: five cents on a pack of cigarettes, one and one-half cents per ounce on hard liquor and one-quarter cent per ounce on wine, beer and soft drinks.

Taylor estimates that these new taxes would generate $64.5 million.

"I feel the proposed taxes are fair and equitable in that they do not tax necessities and payment would not be a tremendous sacrifice for the taxpayers," Taylor said.

The senator proposes that the new taxes be deposited in a revolving account to support the program rather than go into the general fund.

"My bill would continue the great start Mississippi made with the 1982 Education Reform Act by halting the flow of talent to school districts elsewhere and by assuring that we entrust the education of our youth to the best minds in the state," Taylor said.

DONATIONS—Students from Hancock North Central 4-H Clubs, from left, Tracy Ladner, Kristie Reynolds, Greg May, Buffy Knight, Paul Day, Hilary Necaise and Bryan Supak, load groceries and clothes collected to prepare them for distribution. The Biology II Club sponsored the canned-food drive and the Hard Luck Club got donations to help with the project. 4-H Youth Agent Gwen Elmore said Knights of Columbus, Winn Dixie and Delchamps assisted with the project, which provided food baskets to more than 30 families during the holidays. Retired FBI agent to direct Coast Crime Commission

Ross Graben, retired senior agent of the Gulfport FBI office, is new executive director of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission.

Graben replaces John E. Montgomery, retired IRS special agent, who has been executive director of MCCC since 1976.

Montgomery, now a public accountant in Gulfport, submitted his resignation due to increasing business demands which limited his time for MCCC work.

Graben, 52, and his wife Margaret, reside in College Park, Gulfport.

They have one son in Mississippi State University and two sons who are practicing attorneys.

Graben, a native of Talladega, Ala., attended Auburn University and Southeastern University in Washington, D.C., and holds a bachelor's degree in accounting.

Graben's employment with the FBI in Washington was interrupted by two years military service with the Army in Korea.

He completed FBI Academy training in Washington and served as a special agent in that city and in Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Charleston, W.V., and Jackson, before being assigned to the Gulfport sub-office in April 1965.

He retired from the FBI in 1982.

Graben's FBI assignments included numerous bank and fraud investigations, political corruption cases, gambling, prostitution and organized crime murder cases, as well as a number of highly publicized local cases.

Since his retirement, Graben has conducted private investigations on a part-time basis.

His offices in the Security Building in Gulfport will also serve as headquarters of the Crime Commission.

The reduced rate will affect present and future Allstate customers in Mississippi. Premium decreases for individual policyholders will average 4.7 percent.

Customers who qualify will receive a rate from Allstate which is 35 percent below the rate approved for the Insurance Services Office in Mississippi.

MR. AND MRS. MARK STEPHEN FRANCE

France—Roberts

St. John Catholic Church in Lakeshore was the setting for the December 1 Nuptial Mass uniting Tammy Kay Roberts and Mark Stephen France, both of Waveland. The Rev. Lambert Stack officiated at the noon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton K. Roberts of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hunter France, also of Waveland.

Musical selections were provided by organist Mrs. Ingrid Ling and vocals by the St. Clare CYO Choir. "Ave Maria" was played on the flute by Kenneth France, brother of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of pale ivory satin with scalloped lace collar on a sheer yoke of English net. The fitted bodice was appliqued with European lace and adorned with seed pearls, while princess puffed sleeves were accented with fabric roses. The full satin skirt, with crystal pleated hemline and cathedral train, was overlaid with English net and generously appliqued with hand-clipped European lace. Her tiny satin bridal hat with Russian face veil was appliqued with matching lace and featured a double pouf of illusion and cathedral streamers.

She carried a cascade bouquet of red samantha rose and Douglas fir greenery.

Kelly Zitterkopf of Waveland was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Cynthia France of Waveland, sister of the groom;

Angie Kelly of Pearlinton, cousin of the bride; and Hazel Spiers of Lakeshore.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of deep burgundy satin each with sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves accented with tiny ruffle, fitted bodice with self sash at the waistline and full skirt.

They wore tiny hats in matching color adorned with fabric roses and Russian veiling, and each carried a single stemmed white bridal rose with satin ribbon streamers.

Flower girls were Dinah Ladner of Nacaise and Elizabeth Ladner of Wiggins, both cousins of the bride. They wore white taffeta dresses with burgundy ribbon sashes and wreaths of white mini-carnations and roses. They dropped rose petals in the path of the bride.

Kenneth France of Waveland, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Glenn France, brother of the groom, and Donald Harville, both of Waveland; and Kenny Gilmore of Orange Grove, Miss.

Ushers were Mike Hogan and Bryan Hogan of Baton Rouge, La., cousins of the groom; Reese Osborne of New Orleans and Eddie Bourgeois of Lakeshore, cousin of the bride.

Jerry Daniels of Clermont Harbor was ring bearer.

Mrs. Roberts chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of pale grey georgette in sheath styling and long, tapered sleeves with pearl decorated draped cowl overlay at the back. The groom's mother was attired in a formal gown of pale blue chiffon with bugle bead decorated fitted bodice and long sleeves with softly flared skirt.

A reception followed in the St. Ann Parish Hall in Clermont Harbor.

Attending the guest register was Angie McMorris of Baton Rouge; punch table, Mrs. Lois Kelly of Pearlinton; bride's table, Mrs. Francis Ladner, Mrs. Margie King, Mrs. Beverly Waltman and Janet Ladner, all of Bay St. Louis; groom's table, Mrs. Sarah Gill and Monica Gill of Tylertown, Miss.

The couple will reside in Waveland.

Pre-Nuptial Parties

A miscellaneous shower was given in New Orleans in the home of Mrs. Beryl Feeney. It was hosted by Beryl Feeney, Alma Gillis, Phyllis Hogan and Cynthia France.

The bride was surprised with a linen and lingerie shower at the home of Mrs. Shelton Bourgeois on Dogwood Drive, hosted by bridesmaids Cindy France, Hazel Spiers, Kelly Zitterkopf, Angie Kelly and Miss Janet Ladner; Mrs. John King and Mrs. Shelton Bourgeois.

The St. Ann Parish Hall was the setting for a miscellaneous shower given for the bride and groom by Mrs. Norvin Kelly, Mrs. Lawrence Ladner, Mrs. Jerry Ladner, Mrs. Kirk Ladner and Mrs. William Ladner.

The bride and her attendants were feted with a champagne breakfast on the morning of the wedding in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Bourgeois, hosted by Mrs. Bourgeois and assisted by Mrs. John King and Miss Janet Ladner.

Recalling the theme of last year "Those Were The Days," Mrs. Mary Hays and Herbie Betz Jr. were presented to the guests.

The Krewe of SCOWI took a trip back to the 15th century. At this time, the ruling power was the Emperor, who decreed everyone celebrate "The Year Of The Dragon."

The Royal family and friends were summoned to honor this happy occasion.

Guests and friends of the Emperor and Empress joined in the gala celebration.

Mary Caillier, captain of SCOWI, welcomed all guests to honor the Emperor and Empress and was received by an overwhelming ovation.

Officers of SCOWI were introduced to the audience and were also welcomed with enthusiasm by all guests.

"The Year Of The Dragon" presented Empress of China, Lorena Scarborough of Pass Christian, costumed in a traditional and authentic oriental gown beautifully designed and fashioned for this era.

Then the moment everyone waited for, the arrival of his Imperial Highness the Emperor Las Galivan of Waveland portraying the person of royalty who was known during that era.

The ball was narrated by Bill Hays with set design and scenery constructed and designed by John Williams Jr.

After the presentation of guests to the Emperor and Empress and the grand march, everyone joined the merriment and dancing to the music of Johnnie Johnson.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 13, 1985-1B

Bay-Waveland Garden Club

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club held its regular meeting Thursday, Jan. 10, at the Garden Center, 114 Leonard Avenue.

Mrs. Irwin Cuculla gave the devotion, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

On Arbor Day, Feb. 8, trees will be planted in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The Pizza Hut was awarded the commercial Beautification Award. Garden of the Month Awards went to Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Ladner, 429 Ballentine, Bay St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Miller, 133 Lafitte, Waveland.

Mrs. Clarence Ladner gave a horticulture report on mandevillas, a flowering, woody vine or shrub.

Mrs. John Newkirk introduced Mr. John Davis, area horticulture specialist, who gave a presentation on trees. Mr. Davis stressed the care of trees in transplanting, fertilizing, choosing trees for color and pruning.

Mrs. S. L. Budge introduced the hostesses, Mesdames Brotmeyer, Crowley, Elmer, Ford, Evans, Lampa, Fahey, Hasling, Voight and Martin.

Pass Christian Garden Club

The Pass Christian Garden Club held its regular monthly meeting January 3 at the Hancock Bank Annex.

President Mrs. John Drevar convened the meeting by calling on the speaker, the Reverend John Izral, for his talk featuring birds.

Rev. Izral approached his subject from a most unusual perspective: that of pointing out the similarities between bird and human life such as methods of spouse selection, care of the family, and the dependability of the male as a provider for the family. He emphasized the pleasure to be derived from birds, flowers or any phase of nature by those whose families have "left the nest" and there is now more time to study their surroundings. The members enjoyed the talk tremendously for Rev. Izral presented a great deal of food for thought.

Mrs. Parnell McKay and Mrs. Clayton Chapman together reported on the plans for Pilgrimage, and asked for help from all members to insure success on March 21.

Tentative plans for a luncheon and fashion show presented by the Princess Shop were briefly discussed by Mrs. Marvin Johnson, but the date and the arrangements will be announced at the February meeting.

Mrs. Robert Doe displayed the squares already completed for the fund raising quilt being created illustrating in its design various phases of Gulf Coast life. The final assembly and quilting will be done by the arts and craft members of the club.

1984 brought the deaths of two members: Mrs. Grover Brandt and Mrs. Robert Deaunler. As is the club custom, a memorial tree for each will be planted Arbor Day, February 8. The location is to be determined by the Civic Committee.

A warm tribute was read in memory of retired Brigadier General Howard F. Haines, followed by a moment of prayer. General Haines reaffirmed his confidence in the goals of the club by a major gift toward its future permanent home.

The meeting adjourned with refreshments prepared by Mesdames Virgil Giani, J.W. Hedgepeth, Thad Hoke and William Harrison.

Ladies Auxiliary Unit 139

Mrs. Lucille Wilkerson, 9th District President of the American Legion Auxiliary, introduced the President and Commander of American Legion Post and Unit 139 in Bay St. Louis. She explained that the American Legion and Auxiliary are going thru a National Awareness campaign to better acquaint the community with their programs.

Miss Agnes Wilkerson outlined the auxiliary's programs which affect the schools.

Miss Wilkerson, president of the local unit, explained that a $500 scholarship is awarded each year to a graduating senior who is the daughter or son of a veteran and plans to attend a Mississippi school. She said the Girl State Program is open to any girl who has completed her junior year in high school. The program, held annually in Jackson, is a week long seminar on politics and government. The expenses for the week are paid by the unit. She informed the board that Bay Senior High had no representative at the 1984 session of Girl State.

Miss Wilkerson explained that the auxiliary has a poppy poster contest and an Americanism essay contest which acquaint the students with America and what it means to live in America.

Board member Margo Frommeyer asked why Bay Senior High was not represented at Girl State. Miss Wilkerson explained the selection process beings with a meeting where the program is explained and applications are distributed. Last year, a date for the meeting was set by the administration. On arrival at Bay Senior High, the principal knew nothing about the meeting and tried to "round up" girls. Very few attended and none were interested or qualified to attend Girl State.

Wilkerson explained that the only applicants for the scholarship from Bay Senior High were members of the organization. The board suggested that a letter be written to both the administration and to Mr. McCullough. Commander Elmer Boyd of Post 139 expressed the Legion's disappointment at the school's lack of participation in its oratorical contest and to certain extent, the scholarship program. Each year the Legion awards four scholarships to Pearl River in the amount of $500 each and a scholarship is awarded to the University of Southern Mississippi.

The Legion has sponsored a Boy Scout troop for more than 50 years.

He mentioned the fact that this year Bay Senior High was the only school whose band did not participate in the Veteran's Day parade.

Mrs. Wilkerson told the board that the American Legion and its Auxiliary have always been leaders in community service and they would continue to do the same. She also pledged the help of the entire organization to the board.

Hancock Women's Club

Hancock Women's Club met at the Gulf National Bank conference room Thursday, Jan. 10. Business included presentation of the new slate of officers by Norma Edler, chairman of the nominating committee. They are Margi Dobson, president; Ann Witworth, vice president; and Perk Landry, treasurer.

Hortense Delbert will take over the 'Care Bear' committee. New members were Rosemary Malandra and Marge Thomas.

Shirley Jones read a letter from the Humane Society thanking the club for their donation of $250.

Arrangements are being made to apply for a post office box to facilitate mail.

Vicky Becker reported on Harbor House. At Christmas time, personal gifts were given to the eight girls and the adults in charge. A Christmas tree and decorations were also furnished by the club with donations from the members.

The program was furnished by E.F. Hutton. Mark Olivari, account executive, gave an excellent talk concerning financial alternatives for today. He gave the members many helpful suggestions for judging a good investment on the basis of growth, income return, safety, liquidity and tax saving. A question period answered many individual inquiries.

The meeting was adjourned by Shirley Jones and refreshments were served by Myrt Filinn, hostess.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

8 and 40

Mrs. Mattie North, Chapeau (president) of the Harrison County Salon No. 218 of 8 and 40 would like to remind all partners of the next meeting on February 1. There will be a Valentine Party at the close of the regular meeting. The fun and fellowship chairman, Mrs. Beatrice Ladner, is planning games and a "Crazy Hat" contest. Each partner is urged to wear a funny hat.

The National 8 and 40 wishes to impress on all partners the word "voluntarism" which means love and compassion in our hearts; first to our parent organization and then a strong dedication to our responsibilities to 8 and 40.

"Bell Ringers for Children" is the theme for 8 and 40 this year. Hopefully the bells will be ringing throughout the states, featuring three bells for our special responsibilities which are partnership, nurses scholarship, children and youth.

With the new year beginning, we have the opportunity to bring happiness into unfortunate lives thru nurses scholarship program.

Every partner must be aware of the increasing needs of stepping up the nurses scholarship program. We must prepare to meet the challenge of this fund as well need more trained nurses. We must raise funds for these scholarships. Donations, memorials and special fund raising to help build up a $2,000 scholarship.

Dr. Esther Oschmann, nurse's scholarship chairman reports national has voted for 25 scholarships for this year.

Another bell ringer is "children and youth." All partners are asked to plan ahead and to continue to give volunteer hours through direct aid in our community and our state, continue to send gifts and monetary contributions to the National Jewish Hospital, the American Legion Child Welfare Foundation and Mothers Fund.

Research, training medical personnel and updated equipment are continuing needs.

Children and youth chairman, Mrs. Genevieve Cole, stresses "direct aid" in our community on local level.

L'Aumonier (chaplain) Dr. Esther Oschmann asks each member to give her your favorite prayer so she will be able to make a "Book of Prayers."

The chaplain says, "A treasure is where the heart is. Faith, hope and love are gems that fill the treasure chest."
